BOOK DESCRIPTION

He bought my contract.

I never expected him to steal my heart.

Now I'm about to lose them both.

I've spent my entire life belonging to monsters.

The only thing that ever changed...

...was the name of the man who owned me.

Then Lev Volkov bought my contract.

The Volkov Bratva's most feared enforcer.

A man whose mercy is more terrifying than his cruelty.

He says I'm his now.

Not because he wants my body.

Because he wants my obedience.

Too bad I've never been good at following orders.

The more I fight him...

The closer he pulls me.

The more I try to hate him...

The harder he makes it to remember why.

Somewhere between his ruthless possessiveness...

His impossible demands...

And the way he'd burn the world before letting anyone touch me...

I stopped dreaming about escape.

Now the enemies hunting the Volkov Bratva have discovered exactly what I am.

His weakness.

And they'll destroy me to break him.

The cruelest part?

I'd rather die as Lev Volkov's...

...than spend another day belonging to anyone else.

Author's Note: A dark, emotionally charged mafia romance featuring a bought woman, an obsessed Bratva enforcer, forced proximity, power imbalance, possessive hero, touch-her-and-die devotion, found family, emotional healing, and a hard-earned happily ever after. No cliffhanger. HEA guaranteed.
