Love brought them together. Destiny could tear them apart...

After a passionate declaration of love and a honeymoon straight out of a fairytale,

Adelina and Rocco should be living their happily-ever-after.

But a devastating clause in his grandfather’s will threatens everything—Rocco must produce an heir or lose his empire.

Adelina wants to give Rocco the world, but she’s terrified of losing herself, like her mother did.

And Rocco isn’t sure he’s ready for a child.

When Adelina’s father returns with a threat that could destroy them both, the pressure becomes unbearable.

Rocco’s family demands he continue their lineage.

His investors are walking away. And Adelina is caught between duty and desire, love and legacy.

With secrets revealed and enemies closing in, can Rocco and Adelina’s marriage survive?

Or will the ultimate test of their love be the one that finally breaks them...
