Then Dr Sam Marshall arrives from Australia. The charismatic trauma doctor is only in London for six months before returning to the Royal Flying Doctor Service, but from the moment they meet, Sam is determined to uncover the woman hiding behind Kate's cool exterior. His warmth and charm slowly begins to thaw the ice around her heart.

As she learns to trust, Kate dares to dream of a future she never thought possible. But when a devastating reminder of her past arrives in the emergency department, old wounds threaten to destroy everything they've built together. Can Kate finally find the courage to face the truth and trust the man who sees her worth? Or will the secrets she's carried for so long cost her the love of a lifetime?
