Choosing Us

by Liz Colbert

BOOK DESCRIPTION

Everyone admired her brilliance—but he fell for her heart.

Dr. Harlow Lane has spent her entire life being exceptional. As a child prodigy turned Clinical Forensic Psychiatrist and Behavioral Analyst for the FBI, she's built her career on logic, discipline, and the ability to outsmart even the darkest minds. People see what she can do—but very few see who she is.

Until she meets Ryan Callahan.

From the beginning, Ryan sees past the accolades and reputation to the woman who carries more than she should and asks for nothing in return. He shows up. He notices. He handles whatever comes his way—without being asked.

Long before he says those three words, he proves them.

But when the serial killer Harlow and her team are tracking escalates, the lines between professional and personal begin to blur. The more she tries to anticipate the killer's next move, the more undeniable it becomes that this predator isn't finished—and he's far more dangerous than anyone realized.

And this time, her brilliance may not be enough.

Choosing Us is a slow burn romantic suspense novel featuring a protective hero who falls first for a brilliant FBI Agent heroine hunting a serial killer. This dual POV book includes a guaranteed happily ever after, and no third-act breakup. Choosing Us is the fourth book in The Callahans, a series of interconnected standalone novels with an overlapping timeline that can be read alone, but best enjoyed if read in order.
