BOOK DESCRIPTION

In my experience, the easiest way to lose a man's respect is to be significantly better at his job than he is.

Contractor Dani Mazzetti knows every beam, brick, and crooked doorframe in Bristol Landing, Pennsylvania. The Mill Street restoration was supposed to be the biggest project of her career: fifteen historic buildings in the town she loves.

Then a big-city developer wins the bid and sends Nolan "Mac" Macauley to run it. He's charming, annoyingly competent and right more often than Dani would like. Working side by side was never part of her plan. Neither was liking him.

But when Dani discovers Mac's father plans to demolish everything they're building, she has to decide whether to trust the man she's falling for (something she's never been good at) or protect the town she's fought her whole life to save.

Suits & Boots is a standalone small-town romance with rivals-to-lovers sparks, witty banter, a little bit of grit, and a guaranteed HEA. It's book one in the Bristol Landing Romance series.
