All the Lights We Left On

by Nora Ellington

BOOK DESCRIPTION

Lighting designer Leah Bennett returns to snowy Snowmere, Maine, intending to settle her grandmother's estate and sell the house where a porch lamp was always left on. A simple promise to help with the town's Christmas Eve Lights

Walk brings her back into the life she once left—and into the orbit of Noah Ellis, the longtime friend she never quite forgot. As a winter storm dims the harbor and a buyer waits for her answer, Leah must decide what home means when the life she built elsewhere matters, too. A warm, slow-burn holiday romance about family, belonging, and choosing a future one light at a time.
