BOOK DESCRIPTION

C.R.E.A.M... it's a statement many live by. Solenne "Kash" Sinclair just so happens to be one of them. For so long, all she knew was if you didn't have the cash, you couldn't get even the slightest of what you dreamed. She finds herself in a sisterhood known as Gang of Roses, where cash is always at their fingertips. All they have to do is take it. Unfortunately, not everything works out in her favor. She loses a bond that secured itself as irreplaceable.

If he can touch it, then it's took. Declan "D-Row" Saint is a man that loves the smell of money. His determination to make sure his family is always fed keeps him ahead of the game. His ability to prioritize love, work, and family is something others tend to admire. In his mind, a man loses value when he can't provide. Sitting at the head of the table means big responsibilities follow.

These two love birds know what they're doing when it comes to numbers. However, they can't seem to see eye to eye when it's about each other. With them both fighting the same clock, time isn't really on their side.
